

Lisette Eusebio
Senior Associate

leusebio@fflegal.com

Lisette Eusebio is a Senior Associate at Forman Friedman, PA. She obtained a Bachelor's of Science degree from Nova Southeastern University, focused in the Paralegal Studies. Subsequently, she graduated from St. Thomas University School of Law with Cum Laude. Prior to joining Foreman Freedman, Ms. Eusebio focused her practice in commercial litigation and insurance defense relating to premises liability, negligent security, professional liability, wrongful death, complex litigation, first party property matters, and Section 1983 claim. Ms. Eusebio also worked as an Attorney Advisor for the U.S. Department of Justice working with Immigration Judges at the Executive Office for Immigration Review. She also completed a Clinical Teaching Fellowship at the Hofstra University, Maurice A. Deane School of Law, Deportation Defense Clinic, supervising law students' representation of destitute detained immigrants.

Admitted to Practice:

- Florida Bar
- New York Bar
- District of Columbia

- United States District Court for the Southern and Middle District of Florida

Awards & Recognition:

- Offer Recipient, U.S. Department of Justice Honor's Program
- Outstanding Clinical Student Award, The Clinical Legal Education Association

Education:

- St. Thomas University School of Law (Juris Doctor, Cum Laude, 2012)
- Nova Southeastern University (BS, Paralegal Studies 2007)

Publication:

Lisette Eusebio, The Convention Against Torture and Third Party Abuse: When Does a Government Breach its Duty Through Acquiescence?, Immigration Law Advisor, Vol. 9, No. 5 (May 2015).